COMMENCEMENT SPEAKER

EDGAR FIGUEROA

B.S. Mechanical Engineering 1994
Former President and CEO, Wi-Fi Alliance

Edgar Figueroa is a former CEO of Wi-Fi Alliance, a nonprofit organization that promotes Wi-Fi access and adoption around the world.

He was born in Guatemala and raised by a single mother. At age 13, he immigrated to the United States and later joined the U.S. Navy, where he received the VT-24 squadron sailor of the year award. After serving in the Navy, he earned his B.S. with honors in mechanical engineering.

Edgar worked in product lifecycle roles at 3M Company before joining Ridgeway Systems, a startup that enabled ad hoc live media to traverse private IP networks and became an International Telecommunications Union standard. He then joined Wi-Fi Alliance, spearheading the industry's Wi-Fi development. In 2007, Edgar became the alliance's chief executive and led a period of extraordinary growth. When he retired in 2022, Wi-Fi's annual economic value exceeded $3.3 trillion and more than 18 billion Wi-Fi devices carried most of the world's data traffic.

Edgar also has an M.S. in technology commercialization from UT. He is a member of the Walker Department of Mechanical Engineering's Academy of Distinguished Alumni, the Cockrell School's Engineering Advisory Board, and the Texas Leadership Society.
